Causes of the American Revolution

Before the American Revolutionary War the original thirteen states of the United States of America were colonies of Great Britain. Great Britain was a monarchy, that is, it was ruled by a king or queen. Great Britain was also at the head of an empire called the British Empire similar to the ancient Roman Empire. An empire is a group of nations, territories, or peoples ruled by a single authority. The thirteen American colonies were part of the British Empire and were ruled by the King of England and the British Parliament located far away across the Atlantic Ocean. The royal governor of each colony was appointed by the king and was loyal to the king. The governor did not represent the colonists.

Remember too that in the 1600s when the colonies were originally founded, some of the colonies belonged to other countries. For example, New York was first settled by the Dutch and the city of New York was called New Amsterdam. The Dutch brought in settlers from Germany, Ireland and France. Great Britain took the colony with warships in 1664 and named it New York. So, all the colonists in North America were not necessarily loyal British subjects.

Before the Revolutionary War, the French and Indian War was fought between Great Britain and France for control over lands in North America, especially lands west of the existing British colonies. This conflict lasted from 1754 until 1763. This war between two major European powers caused the Seven Years' War in Europe. During this time of wars, it was in the best interest of the British Empire to defend the colonies. After the wars ended, Britain had gained control over most of North America east of the Mississippi River.

Britain had invested heavily in defending the colonies and now wanted to show authority over them by imposing heavy taxes. As a result, the colonists formed what were called committees of correspondence. These led to the establishment of Provincial Congresses in the colonies, their first independent governments. These provincial governments of the thirteen colonies joined together in the First Continental Congress in 1774. In response, the British government sent troops, dissolved the local governments, and enacted more taxes and rules. The first skirmishes of the Revolutionary War began in 1775 and the Declaration of Independence was written in 1776.
